There have also been new lines or extensions in Hainan and Ch'in Chou. The Empero at first accorded to the Viceroy's request; but later the Board at Peking protested successfully against the proposed scale of rewards. It held that the officers were entitled only to ordinary and not as before to special recompense or marks of distinction. On the earlier occasion the work was undertaken for the first time, while on the latter it was morely in extension or continuation what had already been done. Secondly, the circumstances were different. The original line was specially required at the moment for the transmission of military intelligence, while there was nothing of pressing importance with regard to the later ones. The Vicerov combats this view with great animation. With regard to immediate importance, he holds that the new lines will bear comparison with the old one. For one of them was required for the operations against the Hainan aborigines and another for the transmission of instructions at the time of the demarkation of the Tonquin Boundary: in both of which cases, moreover, they materially contributed to the success which was happily schieved. Or if dangers and difficulties be taken into consideration, they will be found greater in the later case. In reply to a petition from the Incorporated Chamber of Commerce of Liverpool on the privileges accorded to foreign steamers in British Colonial ports, a letter has been received from the Premier saying that the question is engaging the attention of Her Majesty's Government and that a further communication on the subject will shortly be addressed to the Chamber. The following is the petition :-

It is therefore the opinion of your Memor ialists that such privileges, not being allowed by the law of the land, should be withdrawn: and furthermore, that if it is necessary to grant any exemptions to vessels belonging to a foreign nation, they should be such alone as are unthey should not be of a character to give any leges in Peking and elsewhere for the study the prejudice of British vessels and the interests

The Council of this Chamber bays unanimous y adopted the following resolution, vis.:-That foreign vessels engaged in trade, whother subsidised or not by their Governments, should not enjoy any privileges in British ports which are not accorded to British vessels.

Your Memorialists therefore humbly pray that your Lordships will be pleased to advise that passed by the Legislative Council of Hongkong on the 28th day of Argust, 188, and objected to by the Hongkong Chamber may be disallowed, along with other Ordinances of similar preferential kind passed in other British Crown Colonies 23rd March.

PEKING NOTES. The paper of to-day opens with several items the festivities that came off at Peking on the occasion of the young Emperor's marriage.

The day before the marriage the three Princes | Mr. Low as Director to confirmed." were deputed by His Majesty to offer oblations in the Temples dedicated to Heaven and to Earth and in Anosstrai Temple.

A few days before the ceremony the Board of Works carried out decorations on a grand scale starting from the Palace as far as the Tachen gate. Silks and sating were profusely put up and ianterns were suspended in large numbers on both sides, which at night illuminated the street à jour. A decree issued from the Throne remitted all consure and panishment to which officials were liable, as a proof of Imperial favour.

A grand review of troops will take place on the parade ground outside the city walls, at which the Emperer will be present in person. The material and timber necessary for the repairs to the I Ho Yuan are to be brought up to News. Peking from Shanghai and other places, and orders have been issued to the various Custom Houses to remit duties on them. REPORT ON TEA ADDRESSED TO THE TSUNG-LI YAMEN BY SIR ROBERT HART.

Inspectorate General of Customs,

Peking, 31st August 1888.

1.—In 1885 and again in 1887 T submitted my. views respecting the increasing demand for Indian Tea, the deterioration of Chinese Tea, and the suggestions that had are made regarding preparation and taxation and baving received the Yamen's order to instruct the Commissigners of Customs at the ports concerned to my Circular No. 387 of the 30th August, 1887. he replies of the Commissioners at Hankow. Kinkiang, Wuhu, Shanghai, Ningpo, Tamsui, Foochow, Amoy, and Canton have arrived; that there are faults of preparation to be remedied, and that taxation ought to be reconsidered, is the general result of their inquiries: After a careful examination and comparison of what the Commissioners write from their several local standpoints, I have now the honour to submit this Report for the Yamen's consideration 2.-Not only is China the native place of Tea. but Chinese Tea is superior in flavour to all other Tess; and yet, although the export of Chinese Tes has gone on increasing, a large proportion of the increasing number of Teadrinkers in England take Indian instead of China's Black Teas, and in America take Japanese instead of China's Green Tens. The cause of this is not that the raw product—the leaf has deteriorated in China, but rather because India and Japan take so much greater pains o prepare their Teas well that not only do the Tens keep without changing, but they can be A bonze who was called in to read a re- sold cheaper than Chinese Teas-so well, too. do their painstaking producers know how to save wisely. China's failure to take the same pains s partly because of the old reason—it was always so .- and partly because falling prices have fact, beaten by new methods. Thus the result is that every new advance gives competitors an additional hold on the market; and although China's export trade has not yet fallen off. it is widely asserted that in time it must cease to > exist: That other Teas should be sold cheaper s explained in two ways:-(a) China's Teas are more heavily taxed -Although all Teas pay the same Import Duty at their destination, they are differently taxed on departure; e.g., while Japanese Teas pay only a fourth of what Chinese pay, Indian Teas pay

> (b) Inda's Teas are more economically prepared. In India the work of a large plantation is managed by one head from first to last, but it is not so in China: Tea growers on the hill-side own only a few shrubs each, -the pickers sell to the collectors,—the collectors to Clinese traders, -and the latter, again, to Foreign meroscate:

thus, expanses are greater, and Tea therefore 3.—The merchants' recommendations are that taxation ought to be reconsidered and defects remedied, but they are not all in accord respecting taxation. Some assert that if Likin and Louties are not entirely repealed, the Tea trade will be destroyed; while others are of opinion that to lighten taxation will be of no advantage sided in the Governor's yamen at an examination to trade. A comparison of these views shows open to all comors as a test of their reading and | that while to lighten taxation would be of certain and immediate disadvantage to revenue, to do so would be at best, of but uncertain advantage to trade. In the case of the Indian competition, for example, Indian Tea can be sold in England; and at a profit, for about 6d. a pound, whereas

Chinese Tea cannot even be sold at a profit for 9d.; therefore, supposing the tax on Chinese Pear vis. about 2d. a pound, entirely abolished, Indian Tes would still undersell it id. a pound. I am therefore of opinion it is useless to touch either Export Duty or ordinary Linia. But the Hankow Comer suggests that a certain tax named the Shan-li, or "hill tax," collected from the owners of the Tea plants, might be remitted with advantage; it amounts to 760 cash, or Tl. 0.4.6.0 a picul, and its removal would encourage pessant growers and help them to take more care of their plants. I think it would be well to give effect to this suggestion : national revenue will not feel the loss, and the abolition of the tax will encourage that carefulness in tending the plant which is demanded at the very starting-point of any effective attempt to re-The opinion just expressed about taxation refers mainly to the black teas which go to England. As regards the green teas which go to American the Amoy merchants point out that during the last ten years, although Chinese green teas have not gone for the less quantity, there has been no incr. ... while, on the other hand, Japanese teas have increased during the same period from 25,000,000 lbs. to 42,000,000 lbs. 'I he Japanese duty on tea, they say, is only $1 a picul, while the Chinese amounts to as much as 34 per cont. ad valorem; and they add that if the Chinese duty were made something like the Japanese, or, say, about 71 per cent. ad valorem the Chinese green teas they refer to would be sold in great quantities. The merchants are presumably quite right in their statistics; but as to the change they propose in the duty. I think the consideration of it may be deferred without danger, although I do not deny that it might result in larger sales. 4.—As regards what merchants allege respecting defeats to be eradicated. British merchants point out that less Ten is sold in London than formerly, and explain that the cause of that is deterioration in quality. It does not appear to at about 5.20 p.m. Defendant was in irons until Scoretary, representing in all 776 shares or 210 me that this explanation can be accepted. The merchants further recommend the appointment of a joint Commission of intelligent experts to spend one gensou in Chinese Tea districts and another among Indian Tea plantations, to study in person the processes, practice, and oustom of each, and, after a proper comparison, advise to what him ought to clarge or drop or adopt, It is also recommended that China should either open a Tea School, or establish a Model Plantation, or place a given Tea district under the supervision of properly appointed Government experts, or charter a Company to conduct the business of a Traplintation on the Indian plan. We hear that Bond Lot 14 has been purchased by the German Government for 310.000. is proposed to erect a Consulate on the mito. nection with the Yokosuka Dockyard at an estimated cost of $190,000. The construction in to be commenced this year.

The most valuable of a collection of articles shipped by the Yangtse for the French Exhibition was a Cabinet from the Industrial Bureau valued at $2,500, and a pair of bronze fountains, valued at 34,000. The fountains, which stand 20 ft. high, are of the form of two storks with wings expanded. A native paper states that thay are to be fixed in front of the Exhibition. The half-yearly meeting of the Yokohama Specie Bank was held on the 9th inst. and was attended by 239 shareholders. After defraying Chinese Imperial Lean of 1884 C-5 per cent. expenses the net profit on the half-year was $510,536.58 and to this was added the balance of 865, 41.47 brought over from last account. $52,000 was placed to the reserve fund, $50,000 was distributed amongst the officers, $450,000

The ceremonies connected with the conferring of a title of honour on the eldest son of the second Queen of Siam, commenced on the 11th and were continued until the 14th March. On the foremoon of the latter day the title was actually conferred amid great rejoicings, and the whole proceedings terminated with a large and splendid procession through the palace grounds in the evening. Similar processions, we may state, had taken place on the previous days, but the final one was perhaps the longest and most interesting, more than 2,000 persons, not including the military, having taken part in it,-Mercantile Gasette.

HNGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at

Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises Passengers for Europe desiring to proceed Freight will be received on board until 4 P.M. for students of a most instructive nature. Both the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore charactarized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration: Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult lauguage absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these aramples PORT SAID, MEDITERRANEAN AND this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted To parties resident in England and interested in Chine it cannot but be invaluable occasion-
